Megan Geckler Uses Flagging Tape for This Colorful Display

Published: Feb 24, 2013

This wonderfully colorful display by Megan Geckler was created with flagging tape. The spiraled linear diagonals create interest and force the viewer's eyes to flow throughout her work. She uses the perfect blend of oranges and yellows that complement each other with great success.

The video is definitely worth a watch as it provides time-lapse footage of the project being created. The footage is from a variety of angles and shows exactly what went into this marvelous display.

Megan Geckler is definitely no stranger to using tape to create her installations. She has been featured on Trend Hunter a couple of times and her work is very prolific. This recent installation is currently being featured in the Lancaster Museum of Art and History.
